

---

(2008) 08 P&H CK 0008
In the Punjab And Haryana At Chandigarh
Case No : C.P. No. 123 of 2007 (O and M)

Ashok Anand

APPELLANT

Vs

Vedsons Engineers (P.) Ltd. (In Liquidation)

RESPONDENT

---

Date of Decision : 08-08-2008

Acts Referred:

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 (CPC) — Section 73
Companies Act, 1956 — Section 17, 18, 19, 19(19), 19(2)
Constitution of India, 1950 — Article 226, 227
Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993 — Section 17, 22, 25

Citation : (2012) 110 SCL 606

Hon'ble Judges : Permod Kohli, J

Bench : Single Bench

---

Judgement

Permod Kohli, J.—The petitioner is the ex-managing director of M/s. Vedsons Engineers P. Ltd. (in liquidation) the present petition has been moved invoking section 446 of the Companies Act, 1956, to seek a direction for protection of the property of respondent No. 1 company from being sold by respondent No. 2 in execution of the decree secured by respondent No. 3 against another company, namely, Vedsons P. Ltd. It is useful to briefly notice the facts and circumstances whereunder the present petition has been filed in this court.

2. Respondent No. 1, namely, M/s. Vedsons Engineers P. Ltd., A-1, Sector 17-A, Chandigarh was ordered to be wound up vide order dated May 22, 1996, passed in Company Petition No. 27 of 1983. The official liquidator attached to this court was appointed as the liquidator of the company-in-liquidation. The liquidator took possession of the assets of the company on July 23, 1996. Respondent No. 1 company challenged the aforesaid order of winding up in Company Appeal No. 17 of 1996. Though initially, an interim stay was granted, however, the company appeal came to be dismissed vide order dated March 20, 1997. Aggrieved of the dismissal of the appeal, the company preferred a SLP before the hon'ble Supreme Court of India. The hon'ble Supreme Court of India vide its order dated January 5, 1998, granted leave and stayed further winding up proceedings. During the pendency of the proceedings before the hon''ble Supreme Court, a settlement came to be arrived at between M/s. Punjab National Bank and the company-in-liquidation. As a result thereof, the SLP was disposed of by the hon''ble Supreme Court of India vide order dated July 18, 2006. During all this period, the property of the company-in-liquidation taken over by the official liquidator remained in his possession and control. Before the hon''ble Supreme Court of India, M/s. Vedsons Steels and Wires P. Ltd., was impleaded as appellant No. 2. The settlement before the hon''ble Supreme Court was allowed between respondent No. 1 company, the Punjab National Bank and another company M/s. Vedsons Steel and Wires P. Ltd., added as appellant No. 2. The hon''ble Supreme Court also observed that the terms of settlement are only between appellants Nos. 1 and 2 and the Punjab National Bank and not with reference to other creditors of the company, if any. Insofar as the winding up proceedings are concerned, the same are still pending before this court.

3. In the meanwhile, respondent No. 3, the Central Bank of India filed a suit for recovery against M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd., before the hon''ble Delhi High Court. The said suit came to be decreed on May 10, 1991, in favour of respondent No. 3 bank and against M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd. It appears that the matter was transferred to the Debts Recovery Tribunal-1, New Delhi, after the creation of the aforesaid Tribunal under the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993. The Tribunal issued a recovery certificate in the year 1999 on the basis of the decree dated May 10, 1991, for the recovery of an amount of Rs. 18,77,267.64. From the recovery certificate (annexure A7), it appears that besides the company, M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd., Mohali, District Ropar, Punjab, there were other individuals who were judgment debtors in the said certificate of recovery including one Smt. Raj Rani in her capacity as a guarantor of M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd. Respondent No.3 seems to have filed an affidavit before respondent No. 2 Recovery Officer alleging that Raj Rani is co-owner of property known as "Anand Cinema" Plot No. 2853-A, Sector 17-A, Chandigarh and secured an order for attachment of the Anand Cinema to the extent of one-third share in the aforesaid property.

4. The relevant extract from the order dated February 13, 2004, passed by respondent No. 2 is quoted hereunder :

Counsel for CH Bank has filed affidavit wherein it is mentioned that C. D. No. 3 is one of the co-owner of mortgaged property, i.e., commercial property (Anand Cinema, Sector 17-A, Chandigarh) Commercial Plot No. 2853-A, Sector 17-A and the other co-owners are Shri Ashok Anand, Shri Subhash Anand and Smt. Asha Anand. Counsel request for attachment of the property. Request is allowed. Registry is directed to issue attachment order and notice for setting sale proclamation in respect of the share of Smt. Raj Rani Anand (C. D. No. 3) aforesaid property. This be served Dasti, Regd. A. D. post. Affixation and by beat of drum in the vicinity. Counsel for CH Bank should file service report by next date of hearing. Objections will be heard on the next date of hearing.

5. It is stated on behalf of the petitioner that when this order came to the notice of the petitioner, he filed objections on behalf of Shri Ashok Anand son of late Shri Ved Pal Anand against the order of attachment, inter alia, pleading therein that the order of attachment has been procured by misstatement of facts in the affidavit of the bank officials. It was, inter alia, pleaded that the property, Plot No. 2853-A, Sector 17-A, Chandigarh, belongs to the Chandigarh Administration and was leased out to M/s. Vedsons Engineers P. Ltd. (in liquidation). This company, lessee of the aforesaid plot is neither a judgment debtor nor a certificate debtor, nor even a guarantor in respect of the loan transaction between respondent No. 3 bank and M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd. It has been further pleaded in the said objection that M/s. Vedsons Engineers P. Ltd. (in liquidation) is a different and distinct company than M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd. It was also pleaded that Smt. Raj Rani, certificate debtor No. 3 is not at all a co-owner of the property sought to be attached. The factum of winding up of M/s. Vedsons Engineers P. Ltd., was specifically mentioned in paragraph 5 of the objections.

6. Respondent No. 2, however, without deciding these objections proceeded to enforce the attachment. The petitioner has placed on record a copy of the lease deed dated July 28, 1981, granted by the President of India in favour of M/s. Vedsons Engineers P. Ltd. (in liquidation) for a period of 99 years. From the perusal of these documents, it is clear that it is the company in liquidation which is the lessee of the plot and thus neither M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd., a distinct company named as judgment debtor in proceedings before respondent No. 2 nor Smt. Raj Rani are the owners of the plot and property raised thereon. It is admitted case of the parties that the objections filed by the present petitioner before the Recovery Officer have not been decided till date and the operation of the order dated October 23, 2007, has been suspended by this court vide interlocutory order dated November 1, 2007.

7. This petition is opposed by respondent No. 3 bank, the decree holder by filing a detailed written statement. It is relevant to mention that in paragraph 7 of the written statement, the bank has specifically and categorically admitted that M/s. Vedsons Engineers P. Ltd., is neither a judgment debtor nor a certificate debtor in proceedings against M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd. It is, however, stated that Smt. Raj Rani is holding 30 per cent share in the company (in liquidation) M/s. Vedsons Engineers P. Ltd., and she being the guarantor for M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd., the judgment debtors, he is deemed to be the title holder in the property up to 30 per cent and this proceedings against the property of the company in liquidation to the extent of share of Smt. Raj Rani are legal and valid. It is further mentioned that Shri Ved Pal Anand, managing director was a certificate debtor in M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd., as guarantor. His entire assets have devolved upon his legal heirs who are Sarv/Shri Ashok Anand, Subhash Kumar Anand and Smt. Asha Anand, besides Smt. Raj Rani who are the shareholders in the company, M/s. Vedsons Engineers P. Ltd. (in liquidation), they are all liable for the payment of the debts of M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd., as guarantor to the bank.

8. In the replication filed by the petitioner, it is denied that Smt. Asha Anand is the shareholder/director in the company (in liquidation). It is specifically stated that Shri Ashok Anand has not inherited any estate or share in the company (in liquidation) from his father, late Shri Ved Pal Anand. It is also mentioned that Shri Ved Pal Anand who was guarantor in case of M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd., never held any share in the company (in liquidation) and hence respondent No. 3 bank is not a creditor of respondent No. 1 company.

9. Since notice of this petition was also issued to the official liquidator. He has also filed a written statement objecting the proceedings against the property in question at the instance of respondent No. 3. It is stated that the property of the company (in liquidation) cannot be sold by respondent No. 2. In paragraph 9 of the reply, the official liquidator has mentioned that in terms of the lease deed Vedsons Engineers P. Ltd. (in liquidation) is the full and absolute owner of the property described Anand Cinema, Sector 17, Chandigarh. He has further stated that there is no record suggesting that Smt. Raj Rani Anand is the owner of the property, except being the shareholder of the company in winding up. The official liquidator has further stated that he has no knowledge of the proceedings before respondent No. 2 as the same do not pertain to the company in winding up. It is also pleaded that the proceedings against the property of the company in winding up are without jurisdiction.

10. It is pertinent to note that even when respondent No. 2 attached the property of the company (in liquidation) no notice of the same was ever issued to the official liquidator or to the company in liquidation at any time.

11. Learned counsel appearing for respondent No. 3 bank has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in case of Allahabad Bank Vs. Canara Bank and Another, wherein the apex court has ruled that the proceedings under the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993, (51 of 1993) cannot be stayed by the company court and can be continued without obtaining leave of the court u/s 446(1) of the Companies Act. It may be useful to refer to some of the observations in the aforesaid judgment. The hon'ble Supreme Court framed the following points for consideration (page 74):

From the aforesaid contentions, the following points arise for consideration :

(1) Whether in respect of proceedings under the RDB Act at the stage of adjudication for the money due to the banks or financial institutions and at the stage of execution for recovery of monies under the RDB Act, the Tribunal and the Recovery Officers are conferred exclusive jurisdiction in their respective spheres ?

(2) Whether for initiation of various proceedings by the banks and financial institutions under the RDB Act, leave of the company court is necessary u/s 537 before a winding up order is passed against the company or before a provisional liquidator is appointed u/s 446(1) and whether the company court can pass orders of stay of proceedings before the Tribunal, in exercise of powers u/s 442 ?

(3) Whether after a winding up order is passed u/s 446(1) of the Companies Act or a provisional liquidator is appointed, the company court can stay proceedings under the RDB Act, transfer them to itself and also decide questions of liability, execution, and priority u/s 446(2) and (3) read with sections 529, 529A and 530, etc., of the Companies Act or whether these questions are all within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Tribunal ?

(4) Whether, in case it is decided that the distribution of monies is to be done only by the Tribunal, the provisions of section 73 of the CPC and sub-clauses (1) and (2) of section 529, section 530 of the Companies Act also apply-apart from section 529A to the proceedings before the Tribunal under the RDB Act ?

(5) Whether in view of provisions in sections 19(2) and 19(19) as introduced by Ordinance No. 1 of 2000, the Tribunal can permit the appellant-bank alone to appropriate the entire sale proceeds realised by the appellant except to the limited extent restricted by section 529A ? Can the secured creditors like the Canara Bank claim u/s 19(19) any part of the realisations made by the Recovery Officer and is there any difference between cases where the secured creditor opts to stand outside the winding up and where he goes before the company court ?

(6) What is the relief to be granted on the facts of the case since the Recovery Officer has now sold some properties of the company and the monies are lying partly in the Tribunal or partly in this court ?

12. Point No. 1 was answered in paragraph 25 which reads as under (page 78 of 101 Comp Cas):

Thus, the adjudication of liability and the recovery of the amount by execution of the certificate are respectively within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Tribunal and the Recovery Officer and no other court or authority much less the civil court or the company court can go into the said questions relating to the liability and the recovery except as provided in the Act. Point No. 1 is decided accordingly.

13. Points Nos. 2 and 3 have also been answered in the following manner (page 80 of 101 Comp Cas):

We are of the view that the appellant's case under the RDB Act--with an additional section like section 34--is on a stronger footing for holding that leave of the company court is not necessary u/s 537 or u/s 446 for the same reasons. If the jurisdiction of the Tribunal is exclusive, the company court cannot also use its powers u/s 442 against the Tribunal/Recovery Officer. Thus, sections 442, 446 and 537 cannot be applied against the Tribunal...

For the aforesaid reasons, we hold that at the stage of adjudication u/s 17 and execution of the certificate u/s 25, etc., the provisions of the RDB Act, 1993, confer exclusive jurisdiction in the Tribunal and the Recovery Officer in respect of debts payable to banks and financial institutions and there can be no interference by the company court u/s 442 read with section 537 or u/s 446 of the Companies Act, 1956. In respect of the monies realised under the RDB Act, the question of priorities among the banks and financial institutions and other creditors can be decided only by the Tribunal under the RDB Act and in accordance with section 19(19) read with section 529A of the Companies Act and in no other manner. The provisions of the RDB Act, 1993, are to the above extent inconsistent with the provisions of the Companies Act, 1956, and the latter Act has to yield to the provisions of the former. This position holds good during the pendency of the winding up petition against the debtor company and also after a winding up order is passed. No leave of the company court is necessary for initiating or continuing the proceedings under the RDB Act, 1993. Points Nos. 2 and 3 are decided accordingly in favour of the appellant and against the respondents.

14. While considering the purpose of the Companies Act and the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, the hon''ble Supreme Court made following observations (page 81 of 101 Comp Cas):

While it is true that the principle of purposive interpretation has been applied by the Supreme Court in favour of jurisdiction and powers of the company court in Sudarsan Chits (I.) Ltd. v. G. Sukumaran Pillai [1984] 4 SCC 657; [1985] 58 Comp Cas 633, and other cases the said principle, in our view, cannot be invoked in the present case against the Debts Recovery Tribunal in view of the superior purpose of the RDB Act and the special provisions contained therein. In our opinion, the very same principle mentioned above equally applies to the Tribunal/ Recovery Officer under the RDB Act, 1993, because the purpose of the said Act is something more important than the purpose of sections 442, 446 and 537 of the Companies Act. It was intended that there should be a speedy and summary remedy for recovery of thousands of crores which were due to the banks and to financial institutions, so that the delays occurring in winding up proceedings could be avoided.

15. Points Nos. 4 and 5 have been answered by the hon''ble Supreme Court in the following manner (page 89 of 101 Comp Cas):

Where the defendant-company is a company against which no winding up order is passed, the company, in our view, is like any other defendant and if in such a situation a question of priority arises before the Tribunal, in respect of any monies realised under the RDB Act, as between the bank or financial institutions on the one hand and the other creditors on the other, it will, in our opinion, be necessary for the Tribunal to decide such questions of priority bearing in mind the principles underlying section 73 of the Civil Procedure Code. Section 22 of the RDB Act, in our view, gives sufficiently wide powers to the Tribunal and the Appellate Tribunal to decide such questions of priorities, subject only to the principles of natural justice. This court has explained that the powers u/s 22 are wider than those of civil courts and the only restriction on its powers is that the principles of natural justice have to be followed. See The Industrial Credit and Investment Corporation of India Ltd. Vs. Grapco Industries Ltd. and Others,

But u/s 73 of the Civil Procedure Code, sharing in the sale proceeds (here, sale proceeds realised under the RDB Act) is permissible only if a person seeking such share has obtained a decree or an order of adjudication from the Tribunal and has also complied with other conditions laid down u/s 73. In the present case, the Canara Bank is not in a position to invoke the principles underlying section 73 of the CPC because it has not yet obtained any decree or adjudication of its debt from the Tribunal. Nor has it complied with other provisions underlying section 73 of the Civil Procedure Code. Hence no relief can be granted on the basis of the said principles.

16. In view of the ratio of the aforesaid judgment, it has been contended on behalf of respondent No. 3 that the company court has absolutely no jurisdiction to interfere with the proceedings before the Recovery Officer and to issue any directions even if the property of the company (in liquidation) is dealt with by it. With a view to understand and appreciate the contention of respondent No. 3, it is deemed necessary to notice some of the relevant provisions of the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993, hereunder:

17. Jurisdiction, powers and authority of Tribunals.-(1) A Tribunal shall exercise on and from the appointed day, the jurisdiction, powers and authority to entertain and decide applications from the banks and financial institutions for recovery of debts due to such banks and financial institutions.

(2) An appellate tribunal shall exercise, on and from the appointed day the jurisdiction powers and authority to entertain appeals against any order made, or deemed to have been made, by a Tribunal under this Act...

18. Bar of jurisdiction.-On and from the appointed day, no court or other authority shall have, or be entitled to exercise, any jurisdiction, powers or authority (except the Supreme Court and a High Court exercising jurisdiction under articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution) in relation to the matters specified in section 17...

34. Act to have overriding effect.-(1) Save as provided under sub-section (2), the provisions of this Act shall have effect notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any other law for the time being in force or in any instrument having effect by virtue of any law other than this Act.

(2) The provisions of this Act or the rules made thereunder shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, the Industrial Finance Corporation Act, 1948 (15 of 1948) the State Financial Corporations Act, 1951 (63 of 1951), the Unit Trust of India Act, 1963 (52 of 1963), the Industrial Reconstruction Bank of India Act, 1984 (62 of 1984) (the Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provisions) Act, 1985 (1 of 1986) and the Small Industries Development Bank of India Act, 1989 (39 of 1989).

17. A conjoint reading of sections 17 and 18 of the aforesaid Act indicates that the Tribunal constituted under the Act has exclusive jurisdiction to entertain and decide claims of the banks and financial institutions for recovery of debts due to such banks and financial institutions and no civil court or authority shall exercise jurisdiction in respect of such debts. However, the jurisdiction and power of the Supreme Court and High Court under articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India have been saved, the same being the constitutional powers. Section 19 of the Act lays down the procedure for deciding the claims under the Act. Section 34 makes this Act a special statute having overriding effect over all other laws, including instruments having effect by virtue of any other law than this Act. There are some provisions of the Act specified under sub-section (2) saved under the Act. The aforesaid provisions clearly provides for exclusive jurisdiction of the Tribunal, the appellate authority created under the Act to entertain and adjudicate upon the claim of the banks and financial institutions in respect of the debts due to them. The hon''ble Supreme Court in the case of Allahabad Bank (supra), has also clearly ruled in this regard. The Recovery Officer constituted and appointed under the Act has been conferred with the power to effect recovery in accordance with section 25 of the Act which reads as under :

25. Modes of recovery of debts.-The Recovery Officer shall, on receipt of the copy of the certificate under sub-section (7) of section 19, proceed to recover the amount of debt specified in the certificate by one or more of the following modes, namely :-

- (a) attachment and sale of the movable or immovable property of the defendant;
- (b) arrest of the defendant and his detention in prison;
- (c) appointing a receiver for the management of the movable or immovable properties of the defendant.

18. The aforesaid provisions of the Act empowers the Recovery Officer to recover the debts by any of the modes prescribed in clauses (a) to (c). However, the emphasis in all these clauses is upon the property of the defendant in the suit. The attachment and sale of the movable and immovable property of the defendant alone can be attached by the Recovery Officer in exercise of the jurisdiction and authority u/s 25 of the Act. It is in this context that the contention of the petitioners in the present case needs to be examined. It is not in dispute that M/s. Vedsons Engineers P. Ltd., company in liquidation the petitioner was neither a defendant in the suit filed by respondent No. 3 bank nor is a judgment debtor in the decree or a certificate debtor in the proceedings before respondent No. 2. This fact is admitted by respondent No. 3 in its written statement referred to hereinabove. Respondent No. 2 is, however, enforcing the decree against the property which is claimed by and admittedly belong to the company in liquidation. No material has been placed on record by respondent No. 3 to show that the company-in-liquidation is a defendant/judgment debtor/certificate debtor/guarantor before respondent No. 2 or has suffered decree for recovery of any amount for which the recovery proceedings are pending before respondent No. 2. To the contrary the petitioner has placed on record the copy of the lease deed dated July 28, 1981, to establish that the property ordered to be attached vide order dated February 13, 2007, belongs to the company in liquidation and not to any individual including Smt. Raj Rani. The petitioner has also placed on record an order dated October 23, 2007, passed by respondent No. 2 whereby notice has been ordered to be issued to the official liquidator for the company in liquidation, namely, Vedsons Engineers P. Ltd. However, simultaneously, the Recovery Officer has further directed the issuance of fresh notice for setting sale proclamation of one-third share of Anand Cinema. However, this order was suspended by this court vide order dated November 1, 2007.

19. Since apparently, no proceedings are pending against the company (in liquidation) before respondent No. 2 nor the company in liquidation is a defendant or a judgment debtor, property belonging to the company (in liquidation) is sought to be attached and sold in execution of a decree against another company, M/s. Vedsons P. Ltd. The question that arises before this court is as to whether it can exercise any control or authority to protect the property of the company (in liquidation). Before this question is answered, another question which has been raised on behalf of the petitioner and objected to by respondent No. 3 is that all the properties sought to be attached in execution of the recovery certificate belong to the company (in liquidation) and is the joint property of its shareholders. In the case of Bacha F. Guzdar Vs. Commissioner of Income Tax, Bombay, the status of a shareholder of a company has been examined. What has been observed by the Apex Court is reproduced here under (page 5 of 25 Comp Cas):

That a shareholder acquires a right to participate in the profits of the company may be readily conceded but it is not possible to accept the contention that the shareholder acquires any interest in the assets of the company. The use of the word " assets" in the passage quoted above cannot be exploited to warrant the inference that a shareholder, on investing money in the purchase of shares, becomes entitled to the assets of the company and has any share in the property of the company. A shareholder has got no interest in the property of the company though he has undoubtedly a right to participate in the profits if and when the company decides to divide them. The interest of a shareholder vis-a-vis the company was explained in the Chiranjit Lal Chowdhuri Vs. The Union of India (UOI) and Others, That judgment negatives the position taken up on behalf of the appellant that a shareholder has got a right in the property of the company. It is true that the shareholders of the company have the sole determining voice in administering the affairs of the company and are entitled, as provided by the articles of association, to declare that dividends should be distributed out of the profits of the company to the shareholders but the interest of the shareholder either individually or collectively does not amount to more than a right to participate in the profits of the company. The company is a juristic person and is distinct from the shareholders. It is the company which owns the property and not the shareholders. The dividend is a share of the profits declared by the company as liable to be distributed among the shareholders. Reliance is placed on behalf of the appellant on a passage in Buckley's Companies Act (12th edition, page 894) where the etymological meaning of dividend is given as dividendum, the total divisible sum, but in its ordinary sense it means the sum paid and received as the quotient forming the share of the divisible sum payable to the recipient. This statement does not justify the contention that shareholders are owners of a divisible sum or that they are owners of the property of the company. The proper approach to the solution of the question is to concentrate on the plain words of the definition of agricultural income which connects in no uncertain language revenue with the land from which it directly springs and astray observation in a case which has no bearing upon the present question does not advance the solution of the question. There is nothing in the Indian law to warrant the assumption that a shareholder who buys shares buys any interest in the property of the company which is a juristic person entirely distinct from the shareholders.

20. In the case of Mrs. C. Mangala Vijayalakshmi v. K.S. Kasimaris Ceramique (P.) Ltd. [2003] 113 Comp. Cas. 562, the Madras High Court has observed as under (page 582):

It is well-settled legal position that there is nothing to warrant for the assumption that a shareholder has any interest in the property of the company, which is a juristic person and which is entirely distinct from the shareholders. The true position of a shareholder is an investor, he will be entitled to participate in the profits of the company in which he holds shares as and when the company declares, subject to the articles of association that the profits or portion thereof should be distributed by way of dividends among the shareholders. That apart, the shareholder has got a further right to participate in the assets of the company, which would be leftover after winding up, but not in the assets as a whole.

21. In the case of Punjab State Industrial Dev. Corporation Ltd. Vs. P.N.F.C. Karamchari Sangh and Another, the hon'ble Supreme Court set aside the order of the company judge directing the PSIDC, a Government company to pay the debts of Punjab National Fertilizers and Chemicals Ltd., the company in liquidation on the ground that the Punjab State Industrial Development Corporation Ltd., holds 46.23 per cent shares in the Punjab National Fertilizers and Chemicals Ltd., the hon'ble Supreme Court held that even though PSIDC is a shareholder, it cannot be fastened with the liability on behalf of the company in liquidation being a distinct entity.

22. Section 34 of the Companies Act, 1956, deals with the effect of registration of a company which reads as under:

34. Effect of registration.-(1) On the registration of the memorandum of a company, the Registrar shall certify under his hand that the company is incorporated and, in the case of a limited company that the company is limited.

(2) From the date of incorporation mentioned in the certificate of incorporation, such of the subscribers of the memorandum and other persons, as may from time to time be members of the company, shall be a body corporate by the name contained in the memorandum, capable forthwith of exercising all the functions of an incorporated company, and having perpetual succession and a common seal, but with such liability on the part of the members to contribute to the assets of the company in the event of its being wound up as is mentioned in this Act.

23. From the perusal of sub-section (2), it is evident that on incorporation of the company and registration of memorandum of the company with the Registrar, it shall be a body corporate and thus becomes a separate and legal entity itself with its perpetual succession and a common seal. Section 49 of the Companies Act deals with the status of the investment of the company which reads as under:

49. Investments of company to be held in its own name.-(1) Save as otherwise provided in sub-sections (2) to (5) or any other law for the time being in force and subject to the provisions of sub-sections (6) to (8),-

(a) all investments made by a company on its own behalf shall be made and held by it in its own name; and

(b) where any such investments are not so held at the commencement of this Act the company shall, within a period of one year from such commencement, either cause them to be transferred to, and hold them in, its own name, or dispose of them. (2) Where the company has a right to appoint any person or persons, or where any nominee or nominees of the company has or have been appointed, as a director or directors of any other body corporate, shares in such other body corporate to an amount not exceeding the nominal value of the qualification shares which are required to be held by a director thereof, may be registered or held by such company jointly in the names of itself and of each such person or nominee or in the name of each such person or nominee.

(3) A company may hold any shares in its subsidiary in the name or names of any nominee or nominees of the company, if and insofar as it is necessary so to do, to ensure that the number of members of the subsidiary is not reduced, where it is a public company, below seven, and where it is a private company, below two.

(4) Sub-section (1) shall not apply to investments made by a company whose principal business consists of the buying and selling of shares or securities.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent a company-

(a) from depositing with a bank, being the bankers of the company, any shares or securities for the collection of any dividend or interest payable thereon; or

(aa) from depositing with, or transferring to, or holding in the name of, the State Bank of India or a Scheduled Bank, being the bankers of the company, shares or securities, in order to facilitate the transfer thereof :

Provided that if within a period of six months from the date on which the shares or securities are transferred by the company to, or are first held by the company in the name of, the State Bank of India or a Scheduled Bank as aforesaid, no transfer of such shares or securities takes place, the company shall, as soon as practicable after the expiry of that period, have the shares or securities re-transferred to it from the State Bank of India or the Scheduled Bank or, as the case may be, again hold the shares or securities in its own name; or

(b) from depositing with, a or transferring to, any person any shares or securities, by way of security for the repayment of any loan advanced to the company or the performance of any obligation undertaken by it;

(c) from holding investments in the name of a depository when such investment are in the form of securities held by the company as a beneficial owner.

(6) The certificate or letter of allotment relating to the shares or securities in which investments have been made by a company shall, except in the cases referred to in sub-sections (4) and (5), be in the custody of such company or with the State Bank of India or a Scheduled Bank, being the bankers of the company.

(7) Where, in pursuance of sub-section (2), (3), (4) or (5), and shares or securities in which investments have been made, by a company are not held by it in its own name, the company shall forthwith enter in a register maintained by it for the purpose-

(a) the nature, value, and such other particular as may be necessary fully to identify the shares or securities in question; and

(b) the bank or person in whose name or custody the shares or securities are held.

(8) The register kept under sub-section (7) shall be open to the inspection of any member or debentureholder of the company without charge, during business hours, subject to such reasonable restrictions as the company may, by its articles or in general meeting, impose, so that not less than two hours in each day are allowed for inspection.

(9) If default is made in complying with any of the requirements of sub-sections (1) to (8), the company, and every officer of the company who is in default, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty thousand rupees.

(10) If any inspection required under sub-section (8) is refused, the Central Government may, by order, direct an immediate inspection of the register.

Nothing in this sub-section shall be construed as prejudicing in any way the operation of sub-section (9).

(11) In this section, "securities" include stock and debentures.

24. The aforesaid section provides that the investment made by the company shall be held in its own name. From the conjoint reading of various clauses, there is no manner of doubt that any investment or property held by the company belongs to the company and not to its shareholders though the shareholders may have a right to participate in the profits of the company and on its liquidation, the assets and properties of the company are required to be distributed and shared in accordance with the provisions of sections 529, 529A and 530 of the Companies Act. In view of this clear legal position what emerges is that no shareholder irrespective of the value of his share has any right or title over the assets and properties of the company so as to deal with the same individually or his shares can be attached in execution of a decree against the individual shareholders. In view of the above circumstances, it can be safely concluded that any property held in the name of the company belongs to the company and in the event of winding up has to be distributed in accordance with the preferential claims and other claims of its secured creditors, the entire property vests with the official liquidator as its trustees, custodian and manager. During the pendency of the winding up proceedings, it is the statutory obligation of the company court to protect the company in liquidation, except to distribute its sale proceeds, etc., for the purpose and for the benefit of the secured creditors, workmen and other creditors and if any amount still survives to be left with the shareholders/contributory members.

25. Proceedings initiated by respondent No. 2 may be valid insofar against the properties and assets of the judgment debtors are concerned, but by no stretch of imagination respondent No. 2 can be permitted to take over or sell the properties of the company (in liquidation) without the company being a debtor much less a judgment debtor.

26. Since it has been brought to the notice of respondent No. 2 that the property sought to be attached belongs to the company (in liquidation) and respondent No. 2 has already issued notice to the official liquidator it has no business to sell the property without affording any opportunity to the official liquidator who represents the company (in liquidation) and has every right to object to the attachment and sale of the property of the company (in liquidation). Even though the provisions of the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993, have overriding effect and the Tribunal/Recovery Officer has exclusive jurisdiction to deal with the property and assets of the judgment debtor, but nonetheless it has no authority under law even under the provisions of the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993, to deal with the property of the company in liquidation not a party or judgment debtor before the Debts Recovery Tribunal and to that extent, this court can exercise a limited jurisdiction to protect the property of the company (in liquidation). In view of the legal position, I direct respondent No. 2 to implead the official liquidator as a party to the proceedings before him and afford him reasonable and adequate opportunity to project the case on behalf of the company (in liquidation). Respondent No. 2 shall not proceed to sell any of the properties/assets of the company (in liquidation) without hearing the official liquidator till he decides the question of the status of the property of the company (in liquidation). The official liquidator shall keep this court informed about the proceedings before respondent No. 2.

27. With the aforesaid directions and observations, this petition is disposed of.