Judgement

1. Leave granted.

2. The only question is : whether the appellants are entitled to payment of interest on solatium payable u/s 23(2) of the Land Acquisition Act(Act 1 of 1894) (for short, 'the Act'). The additional amount was awarded by the reference Court on December 15, 1979 enhancing the compensation. The High Court by its judgment dated 4.12.1995 has further enhanced the compensation to No. 42,056.15. The appellants claimed interest on solatium of No. 6308.42 which was disallowed by the High Court. The interest on solatium was calculated from 1.1.1967 to 31.12.1971. The appellants placed reliance on a judgment of this Court in Periyar and Pareekanni Rubbers Ltd. Vs. State of Kerala, contending that interest on solatium is a part of the component u/s 23(1) of the Act and that, therefore, they are entitled to payment of the interest. The High Court, therefore, was not right in refusing interest on solatium. To appreciate the contention it is necessary to look to the provisions of the Act.

3. Section 28 gives power to the Court to award interest when the Court enhances the compensation in excess of amount awarded by the Collector at the rate specified therein, namely, preceding the Amendment Act 68 of 1984, at 6% per annum under the Central Act or at the rates as per the appropriate Act amended by the local amendments to the Act. After the Amendment Act coming into force w.e.f. September 24, 1984 the claimants would be entitled to interest at 9% p.a. for one year from the date of taking possession and on expiry thereof, at 15% p.a. till the date of the deposit into the Court.

4. Section 23(1) envisages that in determination of compensation to be awarded for the land acquired under the Act, the Court shall take into consideration the respective criteria laid in Clauses (1) to (6) applicable to the given facts of the case. Therefore, the Court is empowered u/s 23(1) to determine compensation to be awarded to the claimant.

5. Section 23(2) provides that "in addition" to the market value of the land as above provided, the Court shall in every case award a sum at 15% preceding the Amendment Act and after the Amendment Act, 30% p.a. on such market value in consideration of the compulsory nature of the acquisition. The legislation, therefore, made a distinction between compensation u/s 23(1) and the additional amount on such market value as solatium in consideration of compulsory nature of acquisition. In other words, Section 28 does not comprehend payment of interest on solatium when it expressly mentions payment of interest on compensation u/s 28 referable to Section 23(1) of the Act. Thus the High Court was right in not awarding interest on solatium. Similar view was taken by this Court after Periar's case (supra) by a three-Judge Bench in Prem Nath Kapur and Anr. etc. v. National Fertilizers Corporation of India Ltd. and Ors. C.A. 11398/95 etc. decided on November 29, 1995.

6. It is true that in Periyar's case this Court had held that interest on solatium is part of the component u/s 23(1). Unfortunately, neither the provisions were considered nor the distinction of the above provisions had been brought to the notice of this Court at that time. Therefore, mistaken view was taken to hold that interest on solatium is part of the component of compensation u/s 23(1) of the Act. It is needless to mention that u/s 28 the claimants will be entitled to the interest on enhanced compensation from the date of the award of the Court u/s 26 and on appeal u/s 54 on the respective compensation, if enhanced, till date of deposit in the Court. Therefore, the State is required to deposit the balance of interest on the enhanced compensation till date of deposit into the Court.

7. The appeals are accordingly disposed of but, in the circumstances, without costs.
